

PeerGuided Study Group Leader

Description

Peer leadersmeet weekly with a small group of students to help them review and refine their understanding of key concepts in a particular course, collaboratively work through practice problems, and prepare effectively for quizzes and exams. The program runs in ecimath, engineering, and social science courses about the Study Group program here

Job Duties

The Peer Leaderwill:

- x Facilitate a weekly two our study session (ns nine weeks, starting week 2)
- x Attend a weekly one our facilitator prep meeting with other Study Groupeer Leader (runs nine weeks, starting week 1)
- x Record student attendance from thesession
- x Enrollin the online Peer Leaderourse (all and winter quarter), SESP 291 (newer leadersonly)
- x Assist with marketing of the Pe@uided Study Group program
- x Help with student evaluation of the PeQuided Study Group program

Qualifications

ThePeerLeademust:

- x Be aNorthwestern University undergraduate student
- x In most cases, have a Bor higher in the course they wish to facilitate for
- x Be committed to fostering learning environments ere students with a wide variety of social identities feel valued and included
- x Be committed to growing and improving as a peer leader over the year
- x Have outstanding interpersonal skills
- x Be committed tohelping other Northwesteristudentssucceed

Dates of Employment

Thisposition is a yearlong commitment (with exception for those students facilitating for courses that are offered only during one or two quarters). Please note that occasionally groups do not fill. In this circumstance, we do our best to find a placement for peer leaders, this might not be possible in all cases.

Compensation

- x ThePeerLeaderwill be paid each quarter they are employed.
- x Studentswho are workstudy eligible may elect to have their stipend put toward their wstlady allotment (this is optional, not required)
- x Students with or without workstudy eligibility are welcome to apply.

For information, contactBorislavaat borislava.miltcheva@northwestern.edu.